

David Roberts

Expert on Exponential Leadership & Technological Disruption

David Roberts is regarded as one of the world top experts on disruptive innovation and exponentially advancing technology. His personal mission is to help transform the lives of a billion suffering people in the world through disruptive innovation.

David's biography

David Roberts' Background

He is an award-winning startup CEO with a passion to help leaders change their intentions for global good.

David is the Distinguished Faculty member at Singularity University. He served as Vice President of Singularity University and two-time Director of the Global Solutions Program. He is an M.I.T. educated Computer Scientist & Engineer and majored in Artificial Intelligence and Bio-Computer Engineering and is a Harvard MBA alum. Harvard, Stanford, and Berkeley's Business schools have all written and taught case studies on David's leadership, management, and decision making.

David is Chairman of the world's leading quantum computing software company 1QBit. He is a formal adviser to Made-In-Space, responsible for manufacturing the first object in Space with a 3D printer on the International Space Station. He is currently designing passenger drones and angel advises a small group of startups led by entrepreneurs that want to positively impact a billion people.

